

NOTES ON EDUCATION.

The Freshman class at Yale has 244 applicants for admission, 69 of whom offer for the Sheffield Scientific School.

The highest salaries paid county superintendents in Pennsylvania is $3,000, the lowest about $700; the average being $1,250.

The per capita cost of the A class in the public schools of Cleveland was last year $81.79; in the High schools $48.91; and in the Normal about $80.

The percentage of male teachers in the Boston schools is thirteen. Superintendent Philbrick thinks that the schools would be more efficient if more men were employed.

The fund for the aid of Southern students at Union College has not been withdrawn. Besides this, several scholarships were established last year for students, irrespective of locality.

The Wesleyan University and the Wesleyan Female College, at Delaware, Ohio, have been united, and the University thus offers practical co-education. The property of the consolidated institution is estimated at $250,000.

Yale University for colored people in Nashville has projected a training school for African Missionaries, and requires funds to complete it. It is thought that its students may be prepared to do excellent work among their race.

In Augusta, Savannah, Atlanta, Macon and Columbus there are good schools open to white and black alike. In the country districts of the State, the schools are generally inadequately supported and poorly attended. But there are indications of a change for the better.

There is a movement in Boston for the admission of girls to the famous Latin School there. It is folly to try to force matters like this; let a few of the many women who have money to colleges already wealthy, use it instead to found magnificent preparatory schools for their own sex.

More than 50,000 pupils received instruction in the 487 general and special schools of Boston in the half-year ending last January. Superintendent Philbrick in his semi-annual report approves the plan of public exhibitions, but deprecates the custom, which has occasional illustrations, of making these exhibitions too much a matter of show, in disregard of the regulation which requires them to "present the attainments of the scholars in the studies pursued during the year."

The number of dress has received especial attention since there have been rules on the School Committee; and the very sensible recommendations made in advance of the last two exhibitions have been of considerable influence for good in this direction.

An extraordinary meeting of Convocation of the University of London has just been held, in compliance with a requisition signed by twenty members, to consider the recent action of the Senate in adopting Mr. Russell-Warren's Permissive Act, empowering them to admit women to medical degrees. This following resolution was moved: "That this House regrets that the Senate has, by adopting a permissive Act of Parliament (Act 38 and 40, Vic., cap. 41), without reference to or consultation with Convocation, materially altered the constitution of the University, and has thereby practically usurped the privileges of Convocation." After a great many silly arguments had been advanced by the opponents to the Senate's action, the resolution was carried, as was the following, which succeeded it: "That it be referred to the annual committee to confer with the Senate in reference to the foregoing resolution, and to ask them not to take any further action until the Act of 38 and 40 Vic., c. 41." But in spite of all this, the Senate will hardly reconsider its decision, and as its action is pronounced thoroughly legal by both the Attorney-General and the Solicitor-General, Convocation is helpless, and can only squirm as noted above.
